In Memoriam

The joy that the Thanksgiving season always brings to us was shadowed five years ago by a deep sorrow, the loss of Dr. A. H. Waiker, in whose memory the Studio wishes to place a verse in its November Film, because we loved him, and are grateful for the blessing of his influence and life.

Today we stand beside the sodded bed
Where thou dost lie,
And place, a rose, in love, above thy head,
And breathe a sigh
In memory of the day we called thee dead,
And said Goodbye.

Five times our earth has circled round its sun
In changeless law,
Five times the south-bound birds have hither flown
To croon or caw,
Five years our souls their feeble best have done
God's rule to draw.

For we keep faith through long years' fretted flight,
Keep faith with thee,
Faith with the lessons learned from thy foresight,
Thy charity,
Thy truth and justice that put wrongs aright,
Those loved bonds free.

If, in the mansions where blest spirits dwell,
In heights far-flown,
If, may be, thou canst hear the tale we tell
Of duties done,
Know thou, we love and guard thy precepts well,
Though thou art gone.

Know thou, thy school a living monument
Rises to thee,
Its young hands holding high their testament
Of loyalty,
Until the years in blessed Sacrament
Bring us to thee.

Your Loaf of Bread

The pancake was probably the very earliest form of bread, and it was originated so long ago that there is no record of when or where such bread was made, or who first thought of the process of crushing or grinding the grain or roots of which it consisted.

The making of bread is one of the most ancient of human arts. Portions of cakes or loaves made from coarsely ground grain have been found in the remains of dwellings that date back to the Stone Age. These specimens were made from barley and one grained wheat, which was crushed between hard surfaces; and in these same dwellings round stones have been found, which were evidently used for this process.

But even before wheat or barley was used, bread was made from acorns and beechnuts, and to this day a sort of cake made from crushed acorns is eaten by Indians on certain islands in the Pacific. When we remember that the North American Indians taught the first white settlers to crush and grind Indian corn or maize in the same manner, we may feel sure that they, too, had their bread, which they baked in the usual manner by laying it upon a heated stone and then covering the dough with hot ashes.

In primitive times the housewife and her daughters both crushed the grain and prepared the bread and cakes. When Abraham entertained the angel unawares, he bade Sarah, his wife, make ready three measures of meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the earth.

In Chaldea an oven for baking bread was found in every courtyard, and close by was a grinding stone. Even in ancient days the use of leaven was known. Without leaven or yeast the bread does not rise and become light and spongy, but remains flat and tough.

It is generally conceded that the Egyptians were the first to use leaven in making bread, though the credit for this is sometimes given to the Chinese. But it seems more probable the knowledge was carried from Egypt to Greece, thence to Rome, and thus by the Romans to the more northern countries during their campaigns. Mention of the use of bread in the writings of those times occurs frequently, and many kinds of grain were employed.

In ancient Rome public bakeries were numerous. These were mostly conducted by Greeks, who made better bread than the Romans. The ancient Egyptians, who carried the art to a high perfection, kneaded the dough with their feet; and this practice persisted in Scotland until a comparatively recent date.

But in those days, and indeed until less than a century ago, bread was made under the most unsanitary conditions. Then it became obvious to thinking people that bread, which is the "staff of life" to the world, must be made under the cleanest conditions possible.

Regulations were made to compel bakers to have their bakeries white-washed twice a year and to keep their baking utensils clean. But the bread was still kneaded, handled, and wrapped by hand. Also, many times after it left the bakery it remained in a grocery-store or market uncovered, the pet lodging-place for the dust and germs, and a fine coating place for an assemblage of flies.

To-day in all the larger bakeries and in many of the smaller ones the dough or finished loaf is not touched by human hands until it reaches its ultimate consumer. All of the mixing and kneading is done by machinery.

When the dough has risen sufficiently it is again kneaded by machines and cut by others into loaves. These drop automatically into waiting pans where they remain to rise again until ready for the oven.

From the oven they are carried to cool; then machines again receive them and wrap them stoutly in waxed paper, which defies the entrance of flies, dust, or other inquisitive or harmful agencies.

To-day also the housewife does not have to do her own baking, or fly out to the bakery for her fresh loaf. Most large bakeries have a delivery system, and after simply hanging out a card on which she designates her desires, before going to bed, she awakens in the morning to find her daily quota of fresh bread, rolls, or even cake and doughnuts, waiting on the door-step.

Even the country districts profit by this delivery system, for in many places the breadman's wagon makes the circuit on certain days and the busy farmer's wife can depend upon him to supply her needs.

It is natural that every country should have a bread that its people prefer to that of any other. Among English-speaking people the white bread made from wheat flour holds sway. But in our large cities, where there is a great mingling of races, we may find bakers making bread of which we have never heard before, and which many of us have never seen.

The German baker deals largely in bread made of rye flour, into which he may sprinkle a few savory caraway seeds.

The Italian baker sells a round, crusty loaf, upon which many a little dark-eyed child makes his noon-day meal, with an onion or a sweet pepper for relish; and the Greek baker makes a similar loaf.

In a Swedish bakery there are slices of sand-brown Knackbröd strung along the ceiling on a pole just as they hang under the rafters of many a farmhouse in the far-away Northland.

They could hang there all winter and never become stale, which is the frugal intention of their baker. Then there is the Finnish baker, who makes his dark, sour-rye loaves with surface shining like brightly polished panes. The specialties of the Scotch bakery are scones, meat pies and floury-soda bread.

In a Hindu bakery you are attracted by the almond paste while you watch the dark-skinned baker mix flour, water, and masses of butter into an oily bread; and from his Syrian neighbor you may buy thin sheets of bread folded like parchment.

Rolls made of soybean flour are sold by the Chinese baker. He has beaten the dough for this with clappers of darkwood, moving slowly and soberly in his Oriental way, quite unlike the method of the Jewish bread-maker, who shapes his loaves of sour rye and Russian pumpernickel with quick, energetic motions.

Of all these various breads, only those of the French baker—milk, rolls, butter crescent, and dainty loaves—taste the bread to which we are accustomed. It is a long way from the hard, flat, unleavened pancake, which our ancestors ate, to the sweet, crusty loaf of to-day. But this is the way the world advances. Even the loaf of bread has changed with the ages into a work of art.—Ex.

TORONTO TIDINGS

Miss Gladys Holt, of Hamilton was in our midst over the week-end of November 12th, renewing her friends and former schoolmates.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel D. O'Neil and children, of Long Branch, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Roberts were entertained to ten at the beautiful home of Mr. O'Neil's sisters, the Misses Maude and Rose O'Neil, on November 13th, on Bonstead Avenue, and afterwards spent a very pleasant evening.

Mrs. Alex. Buchan, Sr., left on November 15th, for Walkerville, where she intends staying for an indefinite time with her eldest daughter, Mrs. John E. Crough, and family. We wish her a pleasant sojourn at the Border.

Our intermediate choir, made up of Mesdames Charles Golds, Jr., Charles Wilson and Lorne Colclough, very gracefully by chanting that triumphant song, "In That Beautiful City of God," as a prelude to our remembrance service on November 13th, while the closing hymn, "Hear the Everlasting Song," was by Mrs. Henry Whealy.

A few of the deaf from here went out and joined their Long Branch and Mimico friends in giving a surprise benefit shower to Mr. and Mrs. George J. Timpson at the home of Mrs. Simmet in New Toronto on November 19th, and a very pleasant evening was spent by all. The Timpsons were the recipients of many and varied staples of comfort, which they wholly unexpected and did not ask for, but their friends thought of them all the more.

Miss Maudie O'Neil had the honor of representing the Gordon Union (Toronto Branch) of the Ontario Women's Christian Temperance Union, at their great gathering in Brockville for several days lately. Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Grooms and children motored down to Hampton and Bowmanville on Amistice Day and remained until the following Sunday with Mrs. Groom's numerous relatives.

During the recent heavy deluge of rain, that at times came down in torrents, the basement of our church was unexpectedly flooded to the extent of half a foot in depth in some parts.

Four members of our Women's Association, Mesdames W. R. Watt, H. W. Roberts, Colin McLean and Henry Whealy, gathered at our church on November 16th, and took stock of the church property which was found to be in splendid order.

We regret to say that Mrs. Frank E. Harris underwent a critical operation at the Lockwood Clinic on November 17th, for chronic appendicitis.

Mr. Jack Goldman left this city lately for Detroit in quest of work.

Miss Rose O'Neil has returned home from a very pleasant ten days' sightseeing trip to Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City and the St. Annie De Bourbe Shrine.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, of Jarvis, who came in to this city to attend the funeral of a relative, were the guests of their brother and sister at "Mora Glen" on November 13th. They were accompanied by their two daughters, Myrtle and Ruby, and also by Mr. Johnson's sister, Mrs. Anthony Jacques, of Brantford.

On November 9th, Mr. and Mrs. A. Percival Walker took a motor trip to Goderich to visit the latter's father, who has not been very well lately, but we hope is better now. Knowing they would pass through Clinton, they invited Mrs. Frank E. Doyle to accompany them and Mrs. Doyle took golden opportunity to go up and see her parents.

Mr. Herbert W. Roberts spoke at our Bible Class on November 16th, upon the difference between this natural life and the Endless Life of the future.

The parents of Mrs. Neil McGillivray motored up from St. John's Que., on November 12th, and spent a brief while with their son-in-law and daughter, and on returning home took along Mrs. McGillivray with them for an indefinite stay.

There was a very large attendance at the regular meeting of the Y. P. S. of members and non-members on November 14th, including its honorary President, Mrs. Ernest Peterkin. This was a "Specialty Evening" and open to all, with a ten-cent admission charged to all non-members. The society's leader, Mr. John T. Shilton, gave a well-exposed and interesting lecture on Shakespeare's well-known play "Julius Caesar."

In keeping with the general custom throughout the Anglo-Saxon world, we held remembrance service at our church on November 13th, when Messrs. Fred Terrell and John T. Shilton gave very earnest and touching eulogies to the honored dead—

Who in His path had trod
And fought for Man and God.

Mr. Terrell extolled the sterling virtues, as displayed in the spiritual welfare of our much lamented deaf friends, such as Messrs: F. Bridgen, P. Fraser, R. C. Slater, Wm. Nurse, Harry Mason, J. R. Byrne and others, also our venerable hearing friend, Mr. J. D. Nasmith, all of whom were pillars of strength among the deaf in their days. Mr. Shilton dwelt upon the cause and prolonged strife of the late world war and the undying patriotism, heroism and noble sacrifice of our gallant heroes for justice and our liberty.

At the annual meeting of our church congregation, held on November 17th, in the Bridgen-Nasmith Hall, a lengthy session was carried on, due to so much matter brought up for discussion. The appointment of a regular minister for our church was left in abeyance. Treasurer F. E. Harris reported a falling off in free-will offering due to the depression, and ways and means were discussed over how to raise more. Platform Convenor Grooms gave a very encouraging report. President Mrs. W. R. Watt, of the Women's Association, also presented a good report. President Frank E. Harris spoke on behalf of the Bridgen Literary Society.

Owing to the absence of President Mrs. John Buchan, the report of the Kicuwa Club was given by Mrs. Ellsworth Bowman and showed it to be making good progress. Mr. John T. Shilton spoke for the Young People's Society and said it was still in a flourishing state, and appealed to all to lend encouragement towards all its young members. Mr. W. R. Watt and Mr. Frank E. Harris were re-nominated for Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent for another term by acclamation. The three probationers, Messrs. George Brethour, Wesley E. Ellis and James R. Tate, were given full standing on our Board of Trustees, and Mr. Arthur H. Jaffray, who had been "an absentee for the past three years," rejoined the same Board.

OTTAWA VALLEY OPTIONS

The deaf of the Ottawa Valley are again on the aggressive, and are pushing everything to the fore. As the next convention of the Ontario Association of the Deaf will convene in Ottawa, the local deaf are realizing the great responsibility that rests upon their shoulders towards entertaining the delegates.

Only a short time ago, a number from the capital journeyed out to Carp, and congregated at the home of Mrs. Jessie Hodgins and participated an evening of unalloyed enjoyment.

It will be most gratifying news to learn that our loyal friends of Carp and vicinity have so far collected the encouraging sum of $166.30 for our coming convention, and it was mostly raised by voluntary subscription.

A good and representative crowd of the deaf attended a gala Halloween party at the Bytown Inn at Ottawa at the end of October, and the various contests that were listed as prize baiting competitions drew almost every one into the fray with unbounded enthusiasm.

WESTERN WAFTINGS

The Misses Kathleen Stinson and Esther Paulson, members of the teaching staff of the Saskatchewan School for the Deaf, spent their summer vacation in Winnipeg, Man., and Manor, Sask., respectively. Both of these estimable ladies were delegates to the Western Canada Association of the Deaf Convention held in Winnipeg at the end of June.

Mrs. Roy Christie, of Meadow Lake, Sask., was a visitor to Saskatoon with her husband during the month of October. The former being the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. Stephanson, one of Saskatoon's pioneer settlers.

The Rev. K. Kriesel, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Saskatoon, goes out and preaches to the adult deaf occasionally.

Mr. Lloyd M. Locke has returned to his home in Winnipeg, after almost a year's residence in Saskatoon.

Superintendent Edwin G. Peterson, of the Saskatchewan School for the Deaf, spent a week in Winnipeg studying methods and management at the Manitoba school, and addressed the Hard-of-Hearing Club, as well as renewing old acquaintances. He also attended the Peikoff-Nathanson wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Tomlinson and family, of Winnipeg, spent two weeks' holidays, as the guests of Mrs. Tomlinson's sister, Miss Turner, of New York, at her summer home, on the Lake of the Woods in Kenora, Ont.

At the Western Canada Association of the Deaf Convention, held in Winnipeg at the end of last June, the following officers were elected to guide the destinies of the next convention. President, R. J. D. Williams, of Saskatoon, Sask.; Vice-President, Miss Kathleen V. F. Stinson, of Saskatoon; Secretary, David Peikoff, of Winnipeg, Man.; Treasurer, Peter D. Stewart, of Saskatoon; Directors, Mrs. Annie L. Cook, Charles W. White and A. H. MacDonald, all of Winnipeg; and Geo. P. Riley, of Victoria, B. C. The convention was largely attended. The next convention will be held in Saskatoon in 1935.

Mr. George L. Young, of Saskatoon, spent a month visiting the Pacific Coast last August, and calling on relatives up there. He says he was much impressed with the beauties of the mountains around Tacoma, Wash., and would like to live there. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts heartily agree with Mr. Young, as regards the majestic scenery of the lofty mountains up there, and think Tacoma a beautifully located city, which they saw a year ago.

The Saskatchewan School for the Deaf has an attendance of 135 at the present time, with more yet to enroll. It won't be long before extra accommodation facilities will be necessary, as that school was originally built to accommodate only 150 students.

A recent visitor to Saskatoon was Mr. Ross McIntyre, who has been working in various parts of the west during the past few years. He originally came from Fullerton, Ont., and is a Belleville school graduate.

At a recent meeting of the Saskatchewan branch of the W. C. A. D., the following slate of officers was elected: President, Miss Kathleen Stinson; Vice-President, Peter D. Stewart; Secretary, Miss Esther Paulson; Treasurer, B. J. Eyoelson; Directors, Mrs. R. J. D. Williams and Mrs. Roy Christie. The members decided to lay plans to raise funds for the 1935 convention, and will start the ball rolling early next year.

Mr. David Peikoff, late of Vancouver, B. C., but who came to Winnipeg in June, to attend the W. C. A. D. convention, fell into a lucky proposition and decided to form a partnership with Mr. Steinberg, of the Central Press, in Winnipeg, and has since been doing very well. He has employed Jack Lindberg, a classmate of his, in the pressroom as head pressman.

On November 6th, in Winnipeg, Miss Pauline Nathanson was united in holy wedlock to Mr. David Peikoff, in the presence of over two hundred guests, Mr. Edwin E. Peterson, Superintendent of the Saskatchewan School for the Deaf, and a great friend of the bridegroom, acted as interpreter. Both the bride and groom were former students at the Winnipeg School for the Deaf and also of Gallaudet College at Washington. The bride's father is an important official of the Globe Bedding Co. His interest in the deaf was shown when, during the convention of the W. C. A. D., he contributed one hundred dollars to the McDermid Scholarship Fund and twenty-five dollars to the W. C. A. D.

Mr. Thomas Morris, of Munster, Sask., kindly conveyed Miss Pauline Ems, of Rosthern, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. D. Williams and daughters, of Saskatoon, and Mr. William Molander, of Viscount, Sask., in his car to the convention in Winnipeg last June. On the way down the party stopped at Mrs. Williams' parental home at Hazel Cliffe, Sask., for a brief rest.

After attending this convention, Mr. and Mrs. Williams and daughter spent three weeks in Kenora, Ont., as guests of Mr. Williams' brother, Percy, at his summer camp. Later on they traveled out to Sioux Lookout and Port Arthur, Ont., visiting other relatives of Mr. Williams. While in Winnipeg, on their two stopovers, they were the guests of Miss Kathleen Stinson at her sister's home, where they had a very pleasant time.

COOKSTOWN CROONINGS

Mr. Herbert McKenzie, Jr., of Aurora, underwent an operation for blood poison on his knee on November 3d, but is all right now. We presume he contracted this while playing lacrosse, at which he is a whirlwind player.

Mr. Samuel Averall motored up to Barrie on November 12th, and brought down Mr. and Mrs. Ursen Johnson to attend the Bell party that evening. Mr. Herbert McKenzie, Sr., with his youngest son, Douglas, and Mr. El Corbieri, all of Aurora, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams on November 13th.

Mrs. William Bell sprang a surprise birthday party upon her better half in honor of his natal day on November 12th, and a very enjoyable time was spent. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Averall and Miss Betty Lawrence, of this town; Mr. and Mrs. Ursen Johnson, of Barrie; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baird and W. Broom, of Beeton; Harry Sloan, of Churchill; Mrs. Agnes Phillips, of Lisle; Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman and Mrs. Jones and children, of Palgrave.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

Miss Jessie Marshall and her affable mother, of Arthur, were visiting relatives and friends in and around Shelburne for a few days at the end of October.

The JOURNAL is gaining in popularity all over Canada, judging by the number of daily subscriptions pouring in. Mrs. William J. Rogers, of Munro, Ont., is the latest to join its increasing numbers. She will be remembered as the smiling Miss Charlotte Rice, of Fullerton.

Miss Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls, spent the week-end of November 11th very enjoyably with Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace, out at St. David's. Helen reports that business is gradually gaining momentum at her place of employment.

There passed away, in Waterloo, Ont., on Armistice Day, a dear old friend of the deaf, in the person of Mr. Ferdinand S. Schneider, who, for a long time, lived on Willow Street, directly opposite the one-time residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moynihan. The deceased knew a good many of the deaf and formerly worked with Messrs. Henry Gottlieb, Charles Golds, Andrew S. Waggoner and others, in bygone days. Though a Canadian, he was well versed in the German language, and whenever a German wanted to converse with the deaf, the deceased would act as interpreter.

Mr. Schneider had only one child, Mrs. (Dr.) Starnaman, of Toronto, who can converse with the deaf with perfect ease.

Wilksburg, Pa.

The Wilksburg Division No. 109, N. F. S. D., after its business meeting November 5th, resolved itself into a benefit social and thereby added a tidy sum to its Depression Fund.

Among the brain teasers was "Scrambled Cities," and the point was to straighten them out. In this contest, Miss Myers and Mrs. Hazel came out even, proving themselves to be the best organizers, it is supposed. Several other amusing stunts were pulled off, much to the entertainment of the crowd. The benefits from the entertainment was good.

The social gathering of the P. S. A. D. faithfuls at St. Peter's parish house was a good one, considering the good attendance and enthusiasm in the contests provided for entertainment. Mr. Holliday won the prize for naming in orderly succession all the Presidents from the first to the last, also those who served two terms. Well, he ought to know all that easily, for he has been in government service so long as postal clerk, it was natural that he would keep the appointing power in line.

Mrs. Teitelbaum won the prize for gathering the most beans through the suction route. Miss Doris Myers' team took the sweets for building up the human form through the sticker route and then Mrs. Clara Smith's team won out in threading the pedal game. Next Mr. Harry Zahn took the route to Jerusalem and got there ahead of the crowd, so he was rewarded for his endurance.

After the games, appetizing refreshments were served and a good profit secured for the Home fund.

Miss Doris Myers furnished the following items of interest:—

The Wilksburg Silent Circle, in spite of a bad night, attracted a good-sized crowd to a "Blackface Comedy," featuring Messrs. Stewart, Craig, Grimm and Bards, and Mesdames Sawhill and Krotzer. As you all know, all colored people fancy bright colored clothes. In one show showing a church service the two ladies wore dresses that fairly screamed their colors. All the players had their faces blackened, and eyelashes, brows, and lips touched up with red. What a contrast! Red and black! All in all, the comedy was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Edwin Hazel, who came to Pittsburgh with Mrs. Irene Schifano Hazel, the first of October, has been confined at the Magee Hospital for two weeks for observation purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Leitner have returned from one of their periodical excursions out of town. This time they attended a meeting of the Board of Managers held in Philadelphia recently. From there they went to Baltimore and Washington.

On the return trip they stopped at the school for the deaf in Romney, W.Va., to visit with friends there.

Archer Bards and his wife were here Election Day to cast their ballots, and Archer reported that he had been held up at his gas station, but he turned the tables and held the would-be thief, who was "sent up" for thirty days.

It seems the Krotzer family are having hard luck in various ways these hard times. Mr. Krotzer's father died November 13th, and after that the family was obliged to seek new living quarters in keeping with reduced income. They still carry on, however, and are hopeful for better times soon.

During the pleasant weather the past fall, Mr. and Mrs. John Stanton had numerous pleasant auto excursions out to their rural home, but to offset this Mr. Stanton had to have an operation for adenoids, but he says he feels much better for it now.

Mr. Edward Breen has returned to his old love—the Wilksburg Ser-vus-Cleaners. He sold out his interest in the Griff & Breen, cleaners and dyers of Homestead, where he had been the past year or two. He says he much prefers Wilksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Finley are contemplating residence at the Carpenters and Joiners Home in Florida after Mr. Finley has had a troublesome goitre removed, and he hopes it will improve his general health, which has been failing lately. The Finleys spent two weeks at Atlantic City and New York some weeks ago and found no encouraging conditions there, and since returning his health has declined, hence the Florida Home arrangement.

Specimen copies sent to any address on receipt of five cents.

The N. A. D. Convention

Having announced their intention of holding the convention of the National Association of the Deaf in New York City, which was requested by the Executive Committee of the Association, the Local Committee is earnestly busy in providing the necessary funds for entertaining the delegates. The organization of this committee is complete, and the wise selection of its personnel, which is headed by Vice-President Kenner, leaves no room for doubt as to its ultimate success. There will be a series of gatherings that are sure of large local patronage, which will accumulate cash, and the good sense and hospitality of New Yorkers will do the rest.

Those who attend the convention will have ample time to enjoy the wonders of the greatest city on the American Continent, and although a program has not yet been issued, we prophesy that much will be done to forward the welfare of the deaf.

New York, with its seven million of people, its exceptional attractions in the line of sightseeing, its great playgrounds on the shores of the Atlantic Ocean, its scenic splendors of the celebrated Hudson River; its cheap transportation by trolley, elevated railroads, subways that go under the river and through Brooklyn and the Bronx; its ferries that carry you for a few cents to New Jersey and to Staten Island; its busses that will take you over miles through palatial districts bordered by mansions of the almost unbelievable rich, and past the greatest stores and skyscrapers that the world can produce; its several great suspension bridges across the East River, and the world's greatest suspension bridge that was opened for traffic over the Hudson River to the Palisades of New Jersey over a year ago;—all should combine to attract a very large attendance at the National Association of the Deaf in July of 1933.

In the interval between now and the date of the Convention, all of the deaf should do their utmost to encourage the Local Committee.

Isaac Lewis Peet's Birthday

NEXT SUNDAY, December 4th, is the anniversary of the birth of the beloved Isaac Lewis Peet, LL.D., who was an educator of the deaf at Fanwood for 52 years—28 as a teacher in the academic department and Principal for 24 years. He was a remarkable man intellectually, a graduate of Yale, an unequalled preceptor, and a sincere friend of the deaf. Polished in manner, polite and pleasant to both the highest and humblest of deaf people, self-sacrificing, dignified and genial, he held the affectionate respect of deaf-mutes to a greater extent than any teacher who ever lived. In times gone by the pupils and graduates of Fanwood never failed to celebrate the day of his birth, but in recent years most of those who knew him personally have passed on, but scattered far and wide and burdened with years, those who have been spared the sickle of Father Time still hold him in grateful remembrance.

CHICAGO

First Prize goes to a deaf-mute! Again! Mrs. Ralph Miller—as Gladys Hedrick, the star guard of that championship Indiana girls team of 1925—won first prize of ten dollars in the Daily Times movies cut-out puzzle contest, two weeks ago. She has figured in scoring-awards in several such contests, the "displays" being arranged by her talented young artist-husband.

Friday and Saturday evenings of November 18th and 19th, were occupied with twin bazaars by two separate churches—All Angels' Mission for the Deaf and Lutheran Church for the Deaf.

The annual bazaar of All Angels' parish won over the top by some $150, total attendance around 350. Mrs. Valdo Bardeen took the prize quilt. Prizes for "carnival" high-scores went to Horace Perry, Mrs. Harry Leitner, Mrs. Arthur Shawl and George Perry. This was managed by a hearing lady, Miss G. A. Dahl—daughter of a deceased president of Chi-first Frats. Prizes for the seventeen tables of games, the closing evening, were awarded as follows:—

Mrs. Wm. Evison, Mrs. Bernard Jacobson, Isadore Newman, Miss Ethel Hinrich, Charles B. Kemp, Mrs. Clifford, David Padden, Fredo Hyman, Mrs. Teddy Banks, Miss Betty Plonhinsky, Bernard Jacobson, Mrs. W. V. Hill, Miss Marie Yanzito, O. Peterson, Ted Banks, B. J. Greenbeck and Mrs. Muriel Woodcock.

In thanking the bazarists for their patronage, the Rev. George F. Flick announced cancellation of plans for a Thanksgiving dinner in the parish house, as only a score had signed up. It had been his hope to list sufficient turkey-eaters to enable him to give free plates to a number of our deserving destitute, which was impossible with only twenty turkey-connoisseurs.

Among the visitors were Grand Vice-President Frederick Neesam, of the N. F. S. D., coach of the Wisconsin school; and his prize athlete, Johnnie Kuglitsch, the dynamic little blonde Austrian, who made second All-American deaf basketball guard last season. "Kug" is now taking a post-graduate course in hopes to pass the Gallaudet College examinations next summer. The two were brought down from Delavan in the car of the Robert Blairs—the kindly "angels" whose support has made Wisconsin athletics possible, as that LaFollette state does not spend taxpayers' money on athletics.

Another distinguished visitor was Carl Bohner, a metallurgist with the Pennsylvania Railroad in Altoona, Pa. Bohner graduated from Ohio State University in 1917, and makes such good money that he has twice toured Europe since then. A Mt. Airy oral product, he worked his way through Ohio State by serving as boys' supervisor in the Ohio school in Columbus, attending classes in the morning. His success should encourage other ambitious deaf lads. "I went up to the old Sac and found not one of the forty deaf families that lived within three blocks of it last time I was here, eleven years ago," he said. Showing how speedy was the decline and fall of Rome—and "Flickville."

While here, Bohner hunted up the Meagher shanty, and asked Frau Frieda to take him to see Miss Virginia Dries. "What do you want to see her for?" asked Frau Frieda, not recognizing the university graduate. "Well, my relatives in Peoria told me she is a wonderful girl and that I ought to get acquainted, and I hoped you could take me to see her and introduce me—know where she lives?" The Frau smiled a quiet smile, and turned around: "Virgie, here is a young man wants to meet you." Sure enough, it happened that Miss Dries boards with the Meaghers!

The Aux-Frats had a party, Armistice Eve, at the League of Hebrew Deaf, 1147 S. South Independence. Mesdames Wallack, Disz and Stewart, in charge.

The John Maas, of this city, filled out a receipt for Stork Express, November 11th; a nine-pound girl; in Marysville, Kan., whither the young couple are temporarily riding the depression. Mother Maas was our former Gertrude Cain. (I would gladly run in a jolly jest, right here, on the former Miss Cain now "raising Cain," but why waste paper and ink when e'er Editor Hodgson or his Assistant Renner, is sure to kill it?)

Leave it to that indefatigable reader, Dr. George T. Dougherty—he claims a continuous-subscription-record of over fifty-four years, having paid for his DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL ever since 1879, or earlier—to dig this out of a recent issue of the Herald and Examiners "Estate letters and wills filed in probate court—Emil Weller, died June 16, 1924; estate $25,000 to widow Jennie, sole heir." This Weller, for long a leading Pas-a-Pas, died while en route to the West just as he was about to receive a Union printers' pension. Dr. Dougherty states he owned some property in a Chicago suburb, and the estate has to be probated here, so the widow can sell with clear title.

The Louis Koraseks took the J. Frederick Meaghers in their car to see the Kansas-Oklahoma schools football game in Olathe, Armistice Day, won by Kansas, 20 to 7. Mrs. Korasek was a pupil in Oklahoma, and Mrs. Meagher was for three years a teacher there. The visitors were tendered a reception by the Ramsays—Mrs. Ramsay being a sister of the late Mrs. Luther Taylor (Luther being the famed "Dummy" Taylor, who flung for McGraw's "Giants" with Matthewson and McGinty.) The Edward Foltz family gave the first large dinner party since their September marriage, having as guests the Meaghers, Koraseks, Charles Marshall family, of Jacksonville, and Troy Hill, of Dallas, Texas—who took movies of the game and of the "Big Shots" present.

At the parish, Friday evening, was seen Mrs. Sawhill Shannon, of Akron, stopping over on the way from her home in Kansas to Akron. A birthday party was given Mrs. Otto Lorenz, October 20th. A. Chiaro, from the postoffice in Montreal, Canada, spent two weeks' vacation in our Windy City. The Northwest Social Circle gave a cheer-up party and a box of cigars to David Eckstrom, who broke his arm at work.

Mrs. McCarthy gave a "500" party for a bunch of friends. Ellis, son of the Charles B. Kemps, Grand Secretary of the Frats, works in one of the biggest banks in the country and just spent two weeks' vacation in Biloxi, Meade.

Edwin Meade Irazel, the parliamentary king, is in a Pittsburgh hospital, under observation. Following the collapse last June of his Omaha firm, which imported him from our University of Chicago Press in 1922, he came back to Chicago with his winsome little wife; took sick, and nearly died.

Frederick Meinken reached Los Angeles on Armistice Day, where he proposes to make his permanent home. Miss Cora Jacoba has been confined with a slight indisposition. Rev. Hasenstap returned from a two-weeks' tour in Indiana, where he was at the annual district conference at South Bend, Ind., November 13th. About seventy attended and gave him a shower of vegetables, fruits and canned foods.

Miss Laura Sheridan, hailing from Indiana, is in Chicago again as a guest of her brother, Edgar, of the Tribune editorial staff. She showed up at the M. E. Mission Sunday, November 20th, and was invited to give a short address followed by a prayer. The Social Center met at the Catholic deaf clubhouse Sunday, November 20th, at 4 p.m., for transaction of business, and enjoyed viewing a movie in the evening. There were about one hundred deaf persons in attendance at the same clubhouse Wednesday evening, who played games for prizes.

Rev. Mr. C. H. Elmes was taken home from the hospital recently. She is still gaining in health. The Illinois deaf school team journeyed at Omaha, Neb., Saturday, November 19th, to play the Nebraska deaf school. Illinois won by 48 to 0.

COLORED DEAF

Mrs. Mary Rosen has moved to a new location in Stony Island. Mrs. Lottie Millran has returned from her former home in New Orleans, La. Her little daughter, Virginia, who has been absent from the city for nearly two years, accompanied her back home.

Several of our group attended Greater Bethel M. E. Church, of which Rev. Ward is pastor, last Sunday. Miss Jackson, who is quite proficient in the sign-language, acted as interpreter. The sermon was impressive.

The item recently that Mr. Malone had motored to St. Louis, Mo., was an error. It should have been back to New York on a summons by his wife, who was ill.

The ever smiling Mrs. Lilly Somers appeared in a brand new pair of "specks" last Sunday after a visit to the optician, which came high stamping her as being "an aristocrat of the silent group."

It is gratifying that in spite of the depression, time of unrest, and hard times and etc., that the majority of our group are employed at some kind of work, however small be the compensation, it enables them to keep the wolf from the door and doff their hats to the man who wrote "Half a loaf is better than none at all."

ASBURY PARK, N. J.

The Asbury Park Silent Club had a basketball meeting for the coming season, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Forrestal at Neptune, N. J., recently.

Clifford Godley, of Newark, who graduated from the New Jersey school last June, is the new member of the Silent's team. The other players are: Johnny Schmidt, Jerry Newman, Cliff Godley, Frank Blanchard, Harry Forrestal, Otto Mangum and Ray Sherill, newly elected manager.

Manager Sherill expects to put the same squad of last year, on the court this winter, that made a good record. On January 21st and February 3d, the Silents will clash with the Silent Athletic Club of Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf. The Silents are desirous of booking games with deaf teams of New York, having home courts. Teams seeking games communicate with Manager Ray Sherill, Monterey Hotel, Asbury Park, New Jersey. O. R. M.

Friday evening, November 18th, the Columbus Branch of Gallaudet College Alumni Association held the first fall meeting, with most of the members present and quite a few invited friends. The meeting was in Mr. LaFountain's classroom and the following program was carried out:—

"A Stranger Among Strangers" by Mr. A. B. Greener, "Incidents of the Reunion" by Miss E. Zell, "The Summer School" by Mr. LaFountain. Mr. Flood, president of the Branch, presided and seemed to enjoy making the introductions. Mr. Greener told of his loneliness at first. Miss Zell explained how the portrait of Dr. Hall was presented, and Mr. LaFountain let us all know that he went to summer school to learn and he put in all his time in studying.

Mr. Abernathy, being present, was called upon and graciously responded. Principal Nilson was also called to the front for a talk and related a good story. Then partners were chosen for flag bridge and a grand march taken through the hall to the Art Studio, where a large sign of "Welcome" was met. Some who do not play bridge had a good time watching the players. Mr. James Flood paired with Miss Jackson, came off winners, but the former owed his good luck to a certain lady who shadowed him. Refreshments of ginger cake, cider and apples, were served by the committee in charge. The members of the committee certainly knew how to arrange a pleasant evening. It was well nigh midnight when departures were taken.

The friends of Principal Nilson are glad to know that his little daughter is recovering finely, after having had a fall from a second story window and a fractured arm and a skull fracture just above the right ear. Much anxiety was felt at first, but now her dad and mother are smiling and friends are happy for them.

Rev. N. E. Borchardt came last Sunday for a service for our Lutheran children. He also conducted a service at the Ohio Home for the residents. Rev. Borchardt, whose home is in Cleveland, is greatly loved by his flock here in Columbus.

Four hunters, Messrs. Crossen, Holden, Kennedy and Seidowski, took advantage of the hunting season and spent last Saturday on the farm of Mr. Neil Kennedy, near Mansfield. This said they had a glorious time, but came home minus the game. Mr. Neil Kennedy is a former student of our school.

Midnight parties seem to be the fashion here. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schwartz recently had a midnight party, and so did Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smethers. These parties both followed the Bi-centennial Social given by the Columbus Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society had an enthusiastic meeting November 17th and heard reports of their social. The profit this year is not so high as in the past, but this was expected as the social was on a much smaller scale.

The deaf of Youngstown have announced a "dime social" for Saturday, December 3d. A dime seems a small amount, but we suspect it will take several dimes to get out after you get into this social.

Miss Lenora Culpher, the deaf blind resident at the Ohio Home, was allowed to vote for the first time, and it was a thrilling minute to her when she, with the assistance of Mrs. Chapham, the matron, handed in her vote. I believe Leslie Oren, the deaf blind man, has been voting for several years. Both keep up with the times, through reading the magazines for the blind.

The Akron Society of the Deaf, ever eager to earn for the Ohio Home, gave a play recently entitled "Kid School Days," and everyone attending was delighted. Mrs. G. Murphy was the teacher and her pupils were Mrs. W. McConnell, Mrs. L. Siensohn, Mrs. J. Carver, Mrs. C. Cherrington and Mrs. D. Williams.

On the same day, Mr. Jay Artrip and Mr. Clarence Stremmel, of Toledo, met with accidents and were rushed to the same hospital. Both have recovered from their injuries.

Mrs. P. P. Pratt, long a resident at the Ohio Home, is reported as being in a serious condition. She is in her eighty-seventh year and it is feared she will not be able to overcome her illness, which resulted from a slight cold.

Mr. E. L. Truxal, our new teacher of floriculture, has had a fine education fitting him for his work. Last summer he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture from the Ohio State University. He has been active in flower shows last spring. Our school feels that it now has a very capable florist.

Mr. Fred Moore, of the Ohio Chronicle, after enumerating the many blessings for which we should feel thankful, close his editorial with "And above all let us remember to thank the Almighty for giving us such men as Abbe de l'Epee, Sicard and the Gallaudets, and others who have devoted their lives for the betterment of the deaf, and let us not forget the group of men and women who are now carrying on the good work."

The Capital City

The National Literary Society of the Deaf met in the Northeast Masonic Temple on September 21, 1932, after its annual respite of two months.

The board of officers was elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Robert M. Werdig; Vice-President, Edward M. Harmon; Secretary, Hunter S. Edington; Sergeant, Roy J. Stewart; Committee on Program, Mr. Werdig, president ex-Officio; Mr. Gerald J. Ferguson and Mrs. Simon B. Alley.

The meeting was concluded with interesting talks by Rev. A. D. Bryant and Mr. Roy J. Stewart about the founding of the Society, in the Trinity Church, Third and C Streets, N.W., in 1907. This paved the way for the plans of the society to celebrate its silver jubilee on December 21st in the Temple. An abstract of the history of the Society will be published in this column after that meeting.

The society held its second meeting of the year on October 1st, with Mr. Werdig in the chair. Mesdames Cady Barton, Chairman; Antonio Cicchino, Roy J. Stewart, and Messrs. Harmon and Looney, were appointed by the president to serve on committee on membership.

The Society's retiring president, Mr. Rose, gave a reading of a popular novel, "The Crossing," by Winston Churchill, Rev. Bryant and Mrs. H. L. Tracy debated on relative merits of Herbert Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt, and Mrs. Burton rendered a declamation, "Autumn."

The third meeting took place on November 16th. The program was to be opened with a lecture, "The Danish Philosophy," by Mr. Larsen. However, the man did not appear, even though the society provided him with an interpreter, Miss Benson, a member of Gallaudet College Faculty. It is hoped that she enjoyed the meeting just the same.

Abraham Kruger, a student at Gallaudet College, described his experiences as a hitch-hiker to California and back, under the title of "The Saga of the Wandering Jew." He covered 12,500 miles in 103 days. Mr. and Mrs. Cicchino and Mr. Lynch, another student at the college, gave a comical recitation entitled, "The Scarecrow," under direction of a stage master, Mr. Ferguson.

One of the oldest organizations in this city, St. Barnabas Mission, met in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Third and A Streets, S. E., on October 12th. Introductory talks were made by the minister, Rev. H. L. Tracy. Mr. H. S. Edington talked about cotton and its usefulness, and Mrs. C. C. Colby followed him by describing the hardships and poverty in Detroit. Mrs. Colby returned from her dear home city and we all are delighted to have her back in our midst again.

The second meeting of this society was in November. Your correspondent regretted he missed a good time, and he wished that he had conquered his fear of the inclement weather, which prevailed that evening. The next meeting will be a regular social on December 14th.

The annual supper of the division scheduled on November 12th, was successful in every particular, and Mr. Rose and his committee are congratulated for their careful and thoughtful planning and execution. Mr. Kaufmann, of Baltimore, projected moving pictures of the Washington meeting of the National Association of the Deaf, and a few scenes of a football game in which I believe Mr. Rose played when he was a student at Gallaudet College.

The division will hold its monthly business meeting in the Masonic Temple, December 7th, at 7:30 p. m. A picture will be made of the division. New officers will be elected to guide the destinies of the organization next year. At the Watch Night Entertainment in the Northeast Masonic Temple, December 31st, after 8 o'clock, a good varied program will be provided under direction of Mr. Roger Scott, chairman. Tickets may be procured from any of local Frats at 25 cents each.

The deaf department of the Calvary Baptist Church held its monthly social on November 15th. A supper and bazaar will be given December 1st, from 5 to 10 p. m. at the church 8th and H Streets, N.W., under the auspices of the deaf department and Sunbeam Society. Admission, 50 cents. The Sunbeam Society met at the residence of Mrs. W. W. Duval, on November 22d.

Mr. Frank Berham, a product of Kendall School, came from Philadelphia, visiting one of his brothers. Mr. and Mrs. Simon Alley and Mrs. Rose celebrated the historic Turkey day with their relatives at Roanoke, Virginia.

Miss Atkins and Mrs. McCall still exchange their visits in Baltimore and in Washington.

Mr. Walter Hauser has returned from his home in North Carolina. It is hoped that he has completely recovered from his recent illness. The present correspondent will be glad to receive news from all until Mr. Werdig resumes writing. Mr. Werdig is compelled to take a rest for a while. Mrs. C. C. Colby, another correspondent, sprained her left ankle last September and it has not healed entirely yet.

HUNTER S. EDINGTON.

BOSTON

The Boston Oral Club deemed it best to discontinue their annual banquet on October 22d, due to insufficient reservations. They had a Halloween social instead, on the 29th, at their hall. Several came masked, leaving many guessing their identities to the end. Old-fashioned Halloween games were played, and the first prize winners were Mr. Paul Mitchell and Mrs. George Birmingham. Apples, doughnuts and cider were served at a late hour. There also was a birthday supper preceding their regular meeting on November 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hull, and Mrs. W. Lombard (nee Alden), returned from a two-month trip to Europe on October 14th, the trip being a honeymoon trip for the Lombards. They brought back many movie reels, taken throughout their travels. They will be shown on the second Saturday of each month, beginning January 2d, and continuing until April, at 72 Gardner St., Allston. The admission fee will be 35 cents. A season ticket for the four ensuing months will be $1.25.

The N. F. S. D., No. 35, annual Halloween dance on the 29th, was well attended. The waltz contest winners were A. Kravitz and R. Prieze, of Lawrence. The 12-reel movie, "The Secrets of the Night," and other comedies, given at the Ritz Plaza, on November 5th, was a financial success.

The first card party held this month, November 12th, was given by the Boston Silent Club. There were twenty-one tables at whist, and over twenty attractive prizes went to the highest scorers. This affair was put under way by Mr. Arthur Doherty, the chairman, and his able aides, Messrs. S. Gower, R. Amico and B. McCarthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller were pleasantly surprised, on October 23d, by over a dozen friends, at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weinberg's home, who celebrated the Millers' eighteenth anniversary. This was instigated and managed by Miss E. Weiss and ye scribe, with the assistance of Mrs. Weinberg. Bridge and new Halloween games were played, which brought out much hilarity. The living room was decorated with black and orange streamers and the lights covered with paper pumpkins. Around midnight, appetizing refreshments were enjoyed.

The happy couple were given a coffee table and a humidor, as a remembrance of this occasion.

The regular Catholic services for the deaf will start on the first Sunday of every month at Boston College, near Franklin Square House. All are welcome to attend.

Misses M. Kornblum and M. Miller received free tickets, for having correct football scores, and saw Schaaf defeat Winston.

Mr. Jacob W. Tushais, widely known Hub lawyer, was H. A. D. Friday night speaker on November 18th, his subject being Judaism and Its Sects. Mrs. Jos. Levy interpreted. There was a good-sized crowd attending.

Rabbi Beryl D. Cohen of Temple Israel will be the next speaker, on November 25th, and his lecture will be on "Thy Rod and Thy Staff." All are welcome to attend at the Temple Mishkan Tefila vestry, Elm Hill Avenue, corner Seaver Street, Roxbury.

Mrs. Evans, mother of Mrs. Clara Trout, of Beverly, had the misfortune to fracture several ribs, and bruises, while crossing the road to the car-line from Danvers. She is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Julius Casteline, at time of writing, is confined to her home, because of a bad facial rash.

Mrs. Dorothy Frank, nee Raymond, a bride of a few months, was in the Hub for a few weeks, paying her mother a farewell visit, before returning to her new home in Detroit, Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Frank were in Florida during the summer months.

The Traveling Bridge Club girls, as ye scribe is wont to call them, due to the distance of the members' homes, reorganized at the home of Mrs. W. M. Gill on November 8th. The winners were Mesdames Miller, Hull and Weinberg. The members had planned to have an outing this summer, but decided to have a theatre party this fall, with the result that they gathered at the Ven-Ho Restaurant in Boston on November 3d. After having a good meal, they saw a show featuring the "Show Boat" of Ziegfeld Follies fame.

While at the Ven-Ho restaurant, Mrs. Emma Lombard was given a pleasant surprise, when she was handed a beautiful pair of blue boudoir lamps, as a gift from those present. They had retaliated, since the marriage of the Lombards was a distinct surprise to the Hub deaf, so shrouded it in secrecy.

Mrs. M. Miller played hostess to the Dorchester bridge club this week. Mesdames Weinberg, Snyder and ye scribe were the winners.

On December 14th, the Ladies' Auxiliary will have a small bazaar at the St. Andrew's Mission, 149 Warren Street, Boston, proceeds to be used in behalf of the Aged Home at Danvers. It will start at 4 p. m. There will be a cafeteria supper.

The L. A. meeting will take place at Mrs. Cross' home in Medford, where they will finish their sewing for the coming year.

Helen Irwin, graduate of Practical Arts High last June, will have charge of the Horace Mann Alumni whist on December 10th, at the Ritz Plaza, 218 Huntington Avenue. The proceeds will go towards a most worthy cause—to aid the needy children of the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zerwich celebrated their silver anniversary when they had two score friends at their home in Dorchester on November 9th. They received some silver kitchenware and a money gift.

On the afternoon of November 5th, Mesdames Kornblum, Gill, Miller and Misses Weiss, Molensky and ye scribe, went to the Food Fair at Horticultural Hall. They were given raffle tickets at the door, for valuable prizes were being given away on that day. Ye scribe was astonished when she found she had the lucky number at one of the drawings, and Miss Molensky the second, among the three hundred odd people present. She received a china percolator with a pound of coffee, and Miss Molensky, a carton of pudding desserts.

Miss Minnie Molensky, formerly of Los Angeles, is back in our midst again, having moved to Dorchester from Woburn, early in October. She and her mother secured a position in Boston late this summer, but were temporarily laid off last week.

The Boston Frats will have a three-day gala affair over the New Year week-end. December 31st.—New Year's Dance, at 30 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

January 1st.—"Open House" at 3 Boylston Place, Boston, at 5 p. m., and a silent movies show in the evening.

January 2d.—Whist at 3 Boylston Place.

HENRI.

Buffalo, N. Y.

The Kicuwa Club entertained their families and friends with a lecture given by Mr. Hubert Bromwich. "Never judge a person by their looks," was the title.

Miss Rena Weil, hearing daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Weil, told a very comical story, entitled "Sale of Men's Hats."

The members answered the roll call by telling a joke.

Tea was served. The hostesses were Mrs. Hubert Bromwich, Miss Agnes Palmgreen, Miss Eleanor Atwater and Mrs. Gladys Grover.

The guest of honor was Miss Charlotte Schwagler. The club presented her with a corsage bouquet. Everyone said they had a good time and wished the club would hold open house again.

Mrs. Hubert Bromwich will entertain the Kicuwa Club members at her home on November 30th. Mrs. Bromwich is a very gracious hostess.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Slater, of Batavia, entertained a number of friends at their home by giving a bridge party.

The winners were Mr. Ira Todd of Rochester, and Miss Agnes Palmgreen of Buffalo. The booby prize went to Miss Catherine Lehman, of Buffalo.

Miss Agnes Palmgreen, Miss Louisa Brittenbach of Buffalo, Miss Iva Ford of Niagara Falls and Mr. Walter Schwagler, of Ebenezer, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Slater. Mr. and Mrs. Slater are good entertainers and the guests enjoyed themselves.

Miss Catherine Lehman of Buffalo, entertained the Bridge Club one evening recently. The guest of honor was Miss Rutha Hesley of Florida. A buffet luncheon was served, and everyone had a good time. Mrs. Rutha Hesley, of Florida, stopped in Buffalo for a few days en route to Cleveland. Her many friends were greatly surprised to see her and sorry she had to go, as she has not been East in several years. Mrs. Hesley is a graduate of the Rochester School for the Deaf.

Mr. James Di Natli and his brother and wife, of Batavia, motored to Pittsburgh and witnessed the football game between Notre Dame and Pittsburgh. Mr. J. Di Natli also visited the Edgewood School for the Deaf. He had a great time there.

Mrs. Nellie Herman, of Buffalo, is visiting friends in Rochester.

Mr. Frank Messanger has a new Essex coach. He is very generous with it in giving his friends a lift.

The Benefit Card Party that was given by St. Francis De Sales on November 17th, at St. Mary's School for the Deaf, was well attended.

MANHATTAN FRAT'S ADVERTISING COSTUME BALL

At the Paramount Mansion, 601 West 183d Street, New York City, known to all-timers as Washington Heights, the Manhattan Division held their Annual Ball on Saturday evening, November 26th.

The affair was a success. There were over two hundred fifty present.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the Royal Orchestra.

Those in costume represented Old Dutch Cleaner, Hammacher & Schlemmer Tools, Gobel's Food, Heinz "57" Varieties, Fisk Tires, Virginia Dare Tonic, Join the Frats, Zuzu, Women's Wear, and various miscellaneous ads.

The judges appointed to select the winners were: Dr. John J. Mayers, son of Mrs. Mollie Mayers; Sylvan J. Riley, President of the Westchester Frats; Joseph E. Mortimer, President of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League; and Anthony Capelle, a social member of No. 87.

The lucky ones were: First prize—($5.00) Henry Peters, as "Heinz 57 Varieties"; Second prize—Mrs. Joseph Peters ($4.00) as Gobel's Food.

Third prize—Miss Bessie Seidman ($3.00) as Fisk Tires. Fourth prize—Joseph Schultz ($2) as Hammacher & Schlemmer Tools.

Though this affair was held two days after Thanksgiving, the Committee awarded $10.00 for turkey feasts.

They were awarded to John Kubin, $4.00; L. C. Saracine, $3.00; Mrs. M. Weinstein, $2.00; E. Braunig, $1.00.

The committee in charge of the Ball, who also got out a pretty souvenir program of twelve pages and cover, were: Moses Schnapp (chairman), Harry Kurz, Isidore Bloom, and Harry Blechner.

The Floor Committee consisted of Anthony Capelle, Director, and Chas. Golden, Arthur Hoins, Jacob Friedman and Edward Carr, as assistants.

At the Manhattan Frats' Ball, Jack Seltzer and J. Farliser, during the intermission of a dance, held the centre of attraction with a laughable skit.

Jack, with his hands, related a husband's tribulations, and Mr. Farliser, who sat on his lap, made all the facial expressions and body movements.

The officers of the Manhattan Division, No. 87, for the present year are: Nathan Schwartz, President; Leo Weiner, Vice-President; Michael D. Ciavolino, Secretary; Henry Peters, Treasurer; Joseph Schultz, Director; Lawrence Timer, Messenger; Lester J. Hyams, Sergeant-at-Arms; Marcus H. Marks, Patriarch.

THANKSGIVING DANCE

On Wednesday evening, November 23d, at the Deaf-Mutes' Union League rooms, it was more than a mere dance affair.

It terminated the series of entertainments under the auspices of the organization managed by Messrs. Benjamin Mintz (chairman), Aaron Hurwitz, Jack Seltzer, P. F. Murtagh and Solomon Isaacson.

Never in the history of the organization has such a large crowd gathered therein. Four hundred and fifty, we are told.

As in years past, the chief attraction was, of course, the turkey money, which was distributed to S. Lehman, $10; Dora Gilman, $9; F. S. Siegel, $8; Samuel Kohn, $7; Mr. Solo, $6; Mrs. Leo, $5; Mr. Tenor, $4; Mr. O. Chiglas, $3; M. Freidrich, $2; and Mr. Kelly, $1.

Through the committee were liberal in awarding such big sums, nevertheless, the profit for the evening was the biggest of all the other entertainments given by them, and part of the proceeds will go towards the Children's Party to be held on the 26th of December.

Michael X. Nowalk, a member of Buffalo Division, No. 40, N. F. S. D., was in the city all last week, visiting relatives, and incidentally viewing the city. He also visited the rooms of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League on Friday, the 25th of November. He left for home on Monday, the 28th.

On November 19th, a surprise shower was tendered to Miss Sara Zanger, at the home of Mrs. Nathan Schwartz, which was attended by many of the deaf and hearing relatives. Numerous gifts, besides a large sum of cash, were received by Sara. Mrs. Schwartz aided by Mrs. Lawrence Timer, engineered the shower. In the evening, card games were played. Prizes for "500" went to Mrs. Marcus Marks and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lovitch, while bridge prizes went to hearing relatives.

The Thanksgiving season was marked at St. Ann's Church for the Deaf by special church services appropriate to the occasion. On Sunday, November 20th, the service took the form of a Harvest Festival, with the fruits of the agricultural industry as part of the decorations in the sanctuary. The Thanksgiving service was held at 11 A.M., on Thursday, the 24th. The hymns were sung by Misses Eleanor Sherman and Jennie Elliott and Mrs. H. H. Diekmann, of the vested choir.

THIRTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fetscher in an informal way invited friends to their home for Saturday evening, November 19th. As the company began arriving in groups and the number increased comments were passed that it must be some sort of celebration. The secret came out: The thirtieth anniversary of their marriage. Thirty years ago a Fanwood school boy and girl romance culminated in Charles and Nettie Elsworth, on Dr. Peet's birthday, stepping before the parson and becoming one. There was no fuss nor frills and only three friends of theirs were in on the secret. Time has dealt kindly with them. In the words of the Arab their shadows have increased. Nettie can be most diplomatically said to have a tendency to embonpoint. Charles, the muscled athlete now sports an Aldermanic front. The laugh of youth has not gone from them and two stalwart sons have blessed their union.

The party rapidly took shape. Tables of bridge, rummy and "500" for the card lovers, older and non-card playing folk were initiated into the mysteries of baffle-board. The bridge prizes went to Mrs. W. E. Fitzgerald and her husband. Mr. Fitzgerald is a son of Katie Elsworth, also of Fanwood, who died some time ago. Mr. and Mrs. Nesgood were best at "500". Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Klopsch annexed the rummy prizes. Mrs. Underwood established a record run of 3325 at baffle board and received a linen table set for her achievement. The best males could score was 1725 by Mr. Toohy.

Prizes distributed, the party adjourned to the dining tables where some fifty-five sat down to a feast such as only Mrs. Fetscher knows how to spread. A handsome gift of crisp bills in an envelope was presented by Mr. A. Stern, who took Mr. and Mrs. Fetscher by surprise. Both responded in short speeches, thanking the donors and recalling that at each five-year period it has been endeavored to get their old friends, almost all of whom present were friends of a lifetime, together. All wished many more of these intervals of which this was the sixth for the couple.

After the tables had been cleared Mrs. Borgstrand did some tricks with educated toothpicks and other games went on.

Among those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Stern, Rappolt, Underwood, Glynn, Nesgood, Borgstrand, Toohy, Fitzgerald, Misses Anderson, Fousadier, Ehrlich, Judge, J. Elsworth, Gilbert, L. Elsworth, Mesdames Klopsch, McCluskey, Theis, Taggard, Gilbert, Messrs. J. Alexander, R. Anderson, J. Maier, Shapiro, Melia, J. Fitzgerald, William Fitzgerald, Meyer, E. Elsworth, F. Stern and others. Telegrams were received from several who were unable to come.

N. A. D.

The attention of the deaf of New York and vicinity is directed to the new advertisement appearing in this issue of the JOURNAL. The Local Convention Committee, under the leadership of Mr. Marcus L. Kenner has been fortunate in securing the magnificent roof garden of the Hotel Pennsylvania, 7th Avenue and 32d Street, for a ball to be held on Sunday evening, March 5th, 1933. Full details will be announced shortly. In the meantime, all who read this are asked to kindly reserve this special date.

The Committee also has completed its program for the "Lit" to be held at the Union League Hall, Saturday evening, December 10th. Featuring the program will be the appearance of Miss Elizabeth Peet, of Gallaudet College, together with the usual items that go to make a high-class "lit." A profitable evening is assured. Detailed program will be found on page 4.

H. A. D.

On Sunday evening, the 27th, the seven-reel mystery thriller, "Dracula," was exhibited before a crowded house. The audience certainly "shivered."

This first Sunday evening, December 4th, another movie will be shown.

Mrs. Tanya Nash spoke most touchingly on the trite, but recurrent subject of "Thanksgiving," last Friday evening, the 25th. This Friday, December 2d, the speaker will likely be Dr. Thomas F. Fox. All welcome.

Nominations for officers of the H. A. D. were held at its meeting last Sunday afternoon, November 27th, with the following result: President, Sol. Garson, by acclamation; first vice-president, E. Souweine, by acclamation; second vice-president, Mrs. M. Eisen, by acclamation; secretary, Mrs. S. Yaeger, by acclamation; treasurer, Mr. Wm. Krieger vs. Leo Weiner. The election will take place on Sunday afternoon, December 18th.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hamra, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a nine-pound boy, on Thanksgiving Day, November 24th, 1932. Mother and baby doing well, and Mr. Hamra is all smiles, for now he is daddy of two boys.

Mr. Alfred Barry spent the 25th of November in the city, the guest of the Osmond Leows. The firm with which he has worked for the past thirteen years—the Federal Printing Company—has moved to Philadelphia. Alfred lives in Long Island, and it hardly possible he would be able to commute such distance daily.

James D. Shelton, aged seventy-five, died at the Jersey City Medical Center on Saturday, November 12th. He was born in New York, but had lived in Jersey City for the past twenty-five years. He was educated at the Fanwood School, and was famous as a baseball player when a pupil. He was on the same team as McPaul, Stengle, Nye Brown, when the late Prof. Nelson was the rugged and hardy catcher, over fifty years ago.

He lived with his son-in-law, who is a policeman in Jersey City. The latter is a good signmaker. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reilly, Mrs. P. Brede, Mrs. R. Harth, Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Glynn, were present at his residence on Thursday following his death. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Nellie Shelton (nee Lotridge) and his daughter, Mrs. Spink. Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Anne's R. C. Church, and the remains were interred in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Charles H. Weimuth is again home in New York, after three and a half months of travel. He attended the Dixie Convention at St. Augustine, Florida. Then after a day's stop at Juarez Mexico, he went to Los Angeles to see the Olympic Games, remaining in that city six weeks and visiting many of the interesting places. He next went to Hawaii, staying eighteen days, where he saw the famous volcano, Kilawa. On his return he spent eight days in Colorado on the Studt ranch, after a brief stop at Vancouver, B. C. During his trip, he visited the great pineapple cannery, sugar mills and abattoirs. Altogether he travelled, by bus, airplane, steamship and railroad train, over 15,000 miles.

Alexander J. Laing, of Brooklyn, died on November 21st, 1932. He underwent an operation for appendicitis at a hospital and never seemed to rally. His son, who is connected with the United States Army, came from San Francisco by airplane, reaching his father's bedside before death occurred. The funeral was held at "Peth Funeral Parlor," on Friday, November 25th, in the afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. G. C. Bradock officiating. Deceased was an expert engraver and much respected by the deaf who knew him.

The Chateau Roma in Valley Stream was the setting for a memorable evening on November 6th, when Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wollmann, of Rockville Centre, celebrated their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary with many of their friends, over a delicious dinner, amidst autumnal decorations.

After the party broke up, the group surprised the "young" couple by appearing at their home.

Jokes, stories and refreshments made the evening pass too rapidly, and everyone agreed that they had had a splendid time.

Mr. Fred G. King is one of the lucky mortals during the football season. As usual, he holds a ticket to the football classic between the Army and Navy teams next Saturday at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

There will be an interesting basketball game at the Fanwood gymnasium on Saturday afternoon, December 10th, at three o'clock between the Fanwoods and a team from St. Ann's Church. Admission, fifteen cents.

Two Northampton school graduates, named J. Frederick Bergan, and Eugene Bergan, were at the afternoon service at St. Ann's Church last Sunday, November 27th.

Frank Nimmo was struck by an automobile about a week ago. He had a narrow escape from death, but fortunately quick work at the hospital brought him eventually to his home, with only a few scars to indicate his accident.

Alex. L. Pach quite recently had a narrow escape from being run over by an auto. He was thrown down, but fortunately not badly hurt.

Mrs. L. H. Metzger, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has for some time been ailing, was on Friday, November 25th, admitted to St. Catherine Hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y., to be operated on to relieve her suffering.

The Loyalty Social Club will give a Whist Social Party on Friday evening, December 9th, at 143 West 136th Street. All who play whist are welcome.

Mrs. Ella Gantt, her sons, and daughter, William, motored to Scranton, Pa., on Thanksgiving Day, as the guest of Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Bowser, their daughter and sister.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE

Andy Mack

Kendall Green always has some visitors. During the past week Mesdames Griggs and Booring paid a visit. Mrs. Griggs is the wife of Professor Griggs of George Washington University and very much interested in the study of child education. Mrs. Booring is the wife of a famous zoologist of Denmark and is a visitor in this country. During the Thanksgiving holidays, Miss Ruth Fish, '31, paid the campus a visit, while enjoying a vacation from her position at the American School at West Hartford.

A comedy in one act, "The Collar Button," was presented by the O. W. L. S. last Wednesday evening to a large crowd. List of characters:

Robert Tisdale, bridegroom
Caroline Hyman, '34
Alice Grayson, bride
Catherine Havens, '35
Herbert Grayson, bride's father
Jean Paterson, '34
Mrs. Tisdale, bridegroom's mother
Lucy Sigman, '36
Julia Grayson, bride's aunt
Isabel Swope, '34
Archib, best man
May Kohn, '33
Ted, usher
Lillian Aho, '34
Florence Bridges, '34, chairman
Juanita Vaughn, '34, mistress of the wardrobe
Shorty Schornstein, '33, stage manager.

Based on the theme of the perpetually lost collar button, the bane of the existence of a shirt, a wedding was almost sent on the rocks before it started. Just imagine a bridegroom on his wedding day, with only a short time remaining before he will say "I Do," he finds his collar button is missing. The best man attempts to find the button, but only discovers that the wedding ring is also missing. This is serious, a very grave state of affairs for a man about to be married.

While the entire performance lasted exactly thirty-two minutes, the signing and spelling of the individuals was one of the most rapid exhibitions seen in a dramatic performance on Kendall Green a long time.

The bridegroom and the bride were so realistic that a minister in the audience later said he would perform the marriage ceremony free of charge. Two of the greatest fun provokers were the best man and the usher. Both seemed to take the wedding as an every-day event, with many jokes being brought up in an attempt to restore the confidence of the betrothed couple.

Miss Elizabeth Peet interpreted the play in a clean-cut manner, with a clear voice that carried well in Chapel Hall.

After the performance the players and their helpers adjourned to the girls' dining room, where they partook of a "night spread of dainties."

On Thanksgiving morning special services were held in the Chapel to commemorate the day. Head Senior Ivan Curtis read the "President's Thanksgiving Proclamation." David Davidowitz, '36, gave a talk on "What Thanksgiving Means to You." This was his first attempt at speaking before the students and his talk contained original ideas, which made a direct impression upon the gathering. Cal Long, '35, signed a "Thanksgiving Hymn," and Robert Horgen, '35, closed the services with a prayer.

Gallaudet's gridiron squad finally permitted the eighth annual Mollycuddle football clash to score the first points of the year. The Mollycuddle game, instituted by Byron Benton Barnes, '26, when "BBB" was a junior, was won by the Upperclassmen by a 20-0 score. This score broke the record for the Kendall Green classic, the best previous mark being 19-0, made by the lower classmen in 1927.

Calling themselves Unholy Hotentots, the upperclassmen downed the Rinky Dinks on a muddy field after half of the game had resulted in a scoreless tie.

Coaches Hugh Stack and Anton O'Branovich tutored the winners; David Davidowitz, Alfred Caliguri and Lester Stanfill coached the losers. Rival managers were Kenneth Nelson and Johnny Davis. Waterboys: Bob Travis and LeRoy Turner.

Active basketball practice was to get under way on Monday. Eighteen games have been scheduled by Manager Abe Kruger. Except for the first three home games, the remaining home games will be played at the spacious Tech high school gym, a half mile from Kendall Green. Both American and Catholic University will be met. Three trips on the road, one to Philadelphia and New York; another to mid-Virginia and the third to Richmond, gives the Blues a most attractive schedule.

The trip to New York will include games in Philadelphia, one in East Orange, N. J., with Upsala College, and a third in Brooklyn with Long Island University. Washington and Lee; V. M. I., and University of Virginia are on the schedule, as are Lynchburg College and Western Maryland.

George Brown, of Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected captain of the team. Veterans returning from last season include: Heimo Antila, Jimm Rayhill and Captain Brown. The schedule:

December 10.—Alumni at Kendall Green
December 16.—Maryland State Normal at Kendall Green

PHILADELPHIA

News items for this column should be sent to James Reid, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Thanksgiving Day of 1932 turned out a red-letter day for All Souls' parish. In our more than forty years' connection with the parish we cannot recall a single instance when the attendance at the Thanksgiving service equaled that of November 24th, 1932. A total of ninety-eight persons attended this service and the Rev. Henry J. Pulver preached a regular Thanksgiving sermon that was both appreciated and edifying.

Heretofore only entertainments given on the evening of the great holiday attracted such a big crowd, while, as a rule, comparatively few persons attended All Souls' Thanksgiving service whenever held.

All Souls' Parish House on this occasion was the objective point of more deaf people than any other single place. The people began to arrive there early in the afternoon and continued to come until evening. From four to six o'clock a turkey luncheon was served for the nominal sum of a half-dollar per plate, and one hundred persons more or less were served. The dinner was cooked and prepared by Mesdames Gertrude P. Salter, Mabel Wilson, Partington, Ida Paul, Laura Yerkes, Dochney and Dorworth, while the array of waitresses were Mesdames Reneau, Allen, Scott, and Misses Leaming and Moyer.

No sectarian line was drawn in the attendance to this dinner, but "all souls" were welcomed under a common bond of friendship and good fellowship in keeping with the old liberal policy of All Souls' Church. Herein lay the secret of its overwhelming success and goodness.

Mrs. Gertrude P. Salter, representing the Ladies' Pictorial Aid Society, which provided the dinner, wishes to thank one and all for donations of eatables to the dinner, and also for the help they offered to make it a success.

After the dinner was served, there followed the service in church, which we have already mentioned, and following the whole parish house was used to pass the evening socially.

There were a number of children present, and these were also entertained with amusing acts and by a rendition of "The Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," by Mrs. A. S. McGhee, and "The Star Spangled Banner," by Mrs. Rothmund, both in pleasing style that thrilled the young people.

The balance of the evening was appropriated by the grown-up people in playing cards, for which a goodly number of small tables were provided.

On the whole, a very pleasant finale was had on this Thanksgiving Day, and the Rev. Mr. Pulver was doubtless pleased with the fine showing made all around.

Among recent visitors to the city were Mr. Frank Leitner and Mr. Holiday, both of Pittsburgh; Messrs. Edwin C. Ritchie and Roger Williams, of Reading. They came here to attend a stated meeting of the Board of Managers of the P. S. A. D.

Mrs. H. D. Drake, wife of Professor Drake of Gallaudet College, and Miss Edith Nelson, an assistant professor in the same college, chanced to visit All Souls' Church during services on Sunday afternoon, 27th of November, but time not allowing them to remain through it, they left their regrets for Rev. Mr. Pulver and departed for Washington. Needless to say that Mr. Pulver was much disappointed in failing to meet the visiting ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bauer, of Point Pleasant, N. J., were guests of Mrs. Rhea Mohr of this city recently.

Mrs. Milton Sweeney, of Trenton, N. J., was a Sunday visitor at All Souls' Church for the Deaf.

Mrs. Hartig, of Atlantic City, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dochney for a while, will return home soon.

Mrs. Hattie Teufel, formerly of Milton, Pa., but now living in this city, was a visitor at the rooms of the Clerc Literary Association last Thursday evening. She moved here only two weeks ago. Mrs. Teufel is a widow with two sons, who are with her, but one boy is a supervisor of boys at the Mt. Airy school and the other works in this city. Their father died four years ago.

Today, 27th of November, is Rev. Mr. Pulver's tenth anniversary of his ordination to the Priesthood by Bishop Garland. It occurred in All Souls' Church, of which he is now Minister-in-Charge. During his sermon today, he briefly referred with pleasure to the event, only regretting that the principals of the ordination were absent. He had not dreamed of so sudden an advance, yet was happy to be with All Souls' again.

By the way, Mr. Pulver is making excellent progress here, and the parishioners seem well pleased with him and his work in the short time he has been with us. May he succeed still more in the time and opportunities that may come to him.

It may be worthy of note that Rev. Mr. Pulver has already entered into the spirit of the life of the deaf of Philadelphia, by renewing his allegiance to the old Clerc Literary Association, and his presence will be an inspiration to the other members.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Spahr, of Carlisle, Pa., who were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Pulver from Thanks-

FANWOOD

Request by Ambrose Reiff, Father of Anthony, a Fanwood Graduate

When the Cadet Battalion was organized, the school was much larger than it now is and we had four companies, but no band. At the first official review, General Francis V. Greene, who at that time was a director of the Institution, and who later became President, selected Anthony C. Reiff as being the best drilled soldier and awarded to him the first gold medal ever presented to a cadet.

Anthony's father, Mr. Ambrose Reiff, a musician, was very much interested in the organization and its development and suggested the inauguration of a band to the late Enoch Henry Currier, who was then at the head of the school. Mr. Currier saw the possibilities and engaged a bandmaster recommended by Mr. Reiff. The idea was a success from the beginning.

The pupils were very apt and the Institution was very proud of the fact that we not only had the first military organization in any school for the deaf, but also the first band.

Mr. Ambrose Reiff died about a year ago and in his will bequeathed the Institution four clarinets, one of which was played by him in the Gilmore Band for many years. These clarinets have just been received and will be used in our band.

On Election Day afternoon, Miss Berry and Mrs. Stockbower visited Mr. and Mrs. Gardner in their new home at Scarsdale and had a very delightful time. Mr. Gardner's health has improved perceptibly and he was interested in hearing about the school. Mrs. Gardner entered St. Luke's Hospital for a minor operation, which was performed on November 10th, and she is reported to be doing very nicely.

On Wednesday morning November 15th, Mr. Julia W. Robbins, chairman of the Committee of Instruction, visited the various classrooms. The children and teachers were pleased at Mr. Robbins' commendation of their work.

Mrs. Edwin S. Steese and Mrs. G. Morgan Browne, members of the Ladies Committee, called on Monday morning, November 14th. Superintendent and Mrs. Skyberg escorted them around the Institution.

The boys' gymnasium classes now have new individual steel box lockers, which replace the old wooden ones. Each boy has a key, which must be hung in the office when not in use.

Our basketball schedule for the season of 1932-1933 is complete and is given below:

December 3.—Open
December 10.—Men's Club of St. Ann's
December 17.—Curtis High School (Away)

January 28.—Lexington or St. Joseph (Away)

February 4.—Peekskill M. A. (Away)
February 11.—Lexington A. A. (Away)
February 18.—Wagner H. S. (Pending)
February 24 and 25.—Tournament, Pittsburgh, Pa.

New Jersey

The members of St. Thomas' Episcopal Mission parish, Newark, held a buncó party at Trinity House in Rector Street, Saturday evening, November 26. The affair was managed by a committee consisting of the following: Mrs. E. H. Rigg, chairlady; Emil Scheffer, Roy Hapward, Hal De Moyné and Oliver McInnuff. There were three prizes for men and three for women. The winners and prizes were as named in order—Men: First, George W. Krebel, a comb and case; second, John C. Riley, ash-tray set; third, Mr. Whose, a knife. Women: First, Mrs. Fish, a set of dessert glasses; second, Miss Margaret Brooks, a vase; third, Mrs. Karus, a framed picture.

Refreshments of layer and other cake, fruit jello and coffee, were served.

The purpose of this party was to make money for the parish treasury. Toward this end an admission fee of thirty-five cents was charged. Owing to a sudden change in weather and to the fact that there were two other affairs on that night, the committee did not expect to clear much and were therefore gratified to find they had met all expenses and were able to turn a neat sum over to the treasury. Members and friends of the parish donated cakes and the jello.

Messrs. Emil Scheffer and Hal DeMoyné visited Miss Edith Collins and family in Barnegat, N. J., Sunday, November 25th.

Miss Margaret Brooks spent her Thanksgiving Day and the next day in Asbury Park. While there, she took in a football game and said it was a very exciting match.

Evening services were held at three o'clock in the afternoon in Trinity Cathedral, Newark, with a large attendance. Among the newcomers was Mr. McNiff from Woodbridge, N. J. Holy Communion will be held in Trinity Cathedral Sunday afternoon, December 11th.

OMAHA

The Women's Guild of All Souls' Mission met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Z. L. Osman on October 14th. The men adjourned to another room till the ladies finished their business. Refreshments were brought by each of the ladies. The next meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Jelinek, and a new arrangement was carried out. Mrs. Jelinek and Mrs. Harry G. Long furnished the "cats." A nominal sum is charged to help swell the coffers of the guild. Mrs. F. Arthur Clayton and Mrs. Edith O'Brien will be the hostesses in December.

On Saturday afternoon, October 1st, the Midwest Chapter of the Owls met at the home of Mrs. James W. Sowell to hoot, squeak, and whatever owls are supposed to do. After a short business session bridge was played. The hostess, well known for her culinary skill, served an appetizing menu. Mrs. Emma Seely won the prize for the highest score. The supposedly wise birds again gathered at the home of Mrs. Lily Mokko Treuke on Saturday afternoon, November 5th. There were three tables at bridge, and Mrs. Effie Anderson captured the prize, a lacquered utility box. Mrs. Treuke served a fine chicken dinner with all the trimmings.

Alfred Marshall, who graduated from Gallaudet in 1931, is now boys' supervisor and instructor in sloyd at the Kentucky school.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hladik, after several years of indifferent luck with his auto repair shop, have moved to a small farm near Benson. Here's wishing them better success.

According to the November 1st issue of the Iowa Hawkeye, Mr. and Mrs. Tom L. Anderson entertained several friends from the Iowa school at a delightful pheasant dinner, on Tuesday, October 25th. So we see Tom's luck is still good.

Being laid off at the Ford plant, Charles Mack hid himself to George Thomsen's farm to help pick corn. We understand the local Ford assembling plant will be closed for a couple of months at least, and the handful of deaf men who have been working a few days each week have no prospect of work there for the present. A cheaper car will be put on the market in the spring.

Mrs. Robert W. Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sowell, is convalescing from a major operation in an Arizona hospital. Mr. Morrow is the superintendent at the school at Tucson.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall S. Hester, former teachers at the Iowa school and now at the Berkeley, Cal., school, are the proud parents of a seven-pound daughter, born October 25th.

Hal and Mel have decided not to attend the next convention of the "Deaf Pen Pushers," advertised in the JOURNAL. The reason is that we have not the price of two railroad tickets, and not Mr. Meagher's failure to put us on his "Propaganda Committee," as possibly might be supposed. It's an impressive list and if all of them could get together, gee! What a time they would have.

Omaha Division, No. 32, N. F. S. D., held its regular meeting Saturday night, November 12th, at the N. S. D. Auditorium. There were few absentees and a lot of important business was transacted. After the meeting several Frats, on invitation, went to the hospitable home of Mrs. John Holter, better known to her friends as Nellie, where their wives had gathered earlier in the evening to play bridge. There was a bountiful spread of sandwiches, cakes and steaming coffee.

The carnival given by the Nebraska School Athletic Association, Saturday night, November 5th, was a social success, but hardly what had been anticipated. There were some wonderful door prizes. Miss Edith Wyckoff, a teacher, won first prize, a beautiful cedar chest; Joe Purpura won a handsome walnut end table; Charles Hitt-shew, a walnut magazine rack; Miss Ethel Nelson, a walnut smoke stand; and the fifth prize, a fine bread board, was won by a pupil. All these prizes were made by the pupils.

Saturday, November 12th, was a big day for the deaf of Omaha and Council Bluffs became the football teams of the two schools clashed on the Iowa school gridiron before an enthusiastic, cheering crowd. There were a number of Omahans present. It was a cinch that Iowa, after defeating Minnesota 6 to 0, would whitewash Nebraska with a tremendous score. However those Omaha lads put up a game fight, twice they were only three yards from the goal, Iowa won 26 to 0. Revenge for the 40 to 0 defeat Nebraska handed them last year. These two teams are always rivals, but each is a good loser when the other one wins. At this writing, the local team is en route to Jacksonville, where they play a game with the Illinois team. Iowa already lost to Illinois, 6 to 0, but we hope Nebraska upsets the dope and wins, even if on a small scale.
